Residential Construction	4.5	--	7.1	Noisy but trending lower
Commercial Construction	16.7	--	3.4	Noisy but trending lower
Employment Intentions	15.8	16.1	10.9	Recovering
Profit Expectations	-9.7	-8.9	-6.2	Times are tougher
Pricing Intentions	66.5	64.6	65.5	No easing of pressure here
Ease of Credit	-64.9	-64.6	-57.1	Anticipating difficulty
Inflation Expectations	4.24%	4.33%	3.45%	Still sky-high
Activity – vs. same month one year ago	7.6	3.8	-0.3	Recovering
Employment – vs. same month one year ago	11.7	9.7	11.4	Steady

Overall, the full-month November ANZBO results show relatively small changes compared to the preliminary result. Business confidence, export intentions, and investment intentions were all a little higher, but own activity, and capacity utilisation dipped. Overall, the theme continues to be gradually easing activity indicators but cost and inflation pressures remain extreme (figure 2).

Table 2 shows that pressure clearly, with a sea of orange at the bottom of the table. Business confidence and the own activity outlook remain clearly under par, and profitability under some pressure. Expectations of credit availability are very subdued. By sector, services and agriculture are relatively downbeat versus their historical norm, while manufacturing is positive. Versus a month earlier, the manufacturing and retail sectors have dropped quite a bit, while the construction and services sectors have lifted compared to October.

Note: Shades of orange indicate high, and shades of blue, low, becoming more intense at the extremes. The colour coding is based on standardised values that take into account the historical average and variation in each series. For example, a series may be low compared to others but if that's not unusual, it may not be in blue. The history of the activity and employment versus a year ago is unfortunately too short for historical comparisons to be particularly meaningful but the data is included for completeness.

The difference between Auckland and the rest of the country was not particularly notable across either activity or inflation indicators.

Our take

It's an uncertain time for the New Zealand economy. COVID is about to spread throughout new regions, the housing market has turned, and interest rates have risen sharply. And now the global COVID situation has taken a turn as well with the uncertain implications of the new Omicron variant. Costs are rising and firms aren't confident they'll be able to maintain their profit margins. But in the bigger picture, demand is solid with jobs plentiful, Auckland is nearly out of lockdown, and there's a plan to reopen the border, as long as the new variant doesn't turn out to be a game changer. The Delta outbreak, meanwhile, hasn't exploded, hospital systems have coped, and New Zealand has achieved impressive rates of vaccination with hopefully more to come. It's a mixed bag, yes, but overall things are still ticking along pretty well. Here's hoping COVID doesn't throw a curve ball.
