Senior appointments at ANZ Bank New Zealand

More changes have been made to the senior leadership of ANZ Bank New Zealand, CEO David Hisco said today.

ANZ's New Zealand Institutional Managing Director David Green and Commercial & Agri Managing Director Graham Turley have been promoted to overseas roles within the bank. Mr Green will become the CEO of ANZ Singapore and Head of South East Asia and India based in Singapore and Mr Turley the Managing Director of Institutional Banking for the Australia division based in Sydney.

Mr Hisco said the bank's Head of Institutional Relationships, Paul Goodwin, would become Managing Director Institutional and the General Manager of Commercial & Agri Auckland and Northland, Mark Hiddleston, the Managing Director Commercial & Agri.

"David Green and Graham Turley have made great contributions to the New Zealand business," Mr Hisco said.

"David has ensured that our Institutional business has the largest market share in that segment of the market and consistently tops the Peter Lee Associates customer satisfaction surveys. And ANZ is New Zealand's largest commercial and agri lender and has been named 'CANSTAR Best Agribusiness Bank' for each of the past four years under Graham's leadership."

Mr Hisco said he was also taking the opportunity to promote the bank's Head of Digital and Transformation, Liz Maguire, to his New Zealand Leadership Team. Ms Maguire would continue with her current role plus assist him manage Asia Retail banking and the Pacific.

"Liz Maguire has been involved in a number of business critical and successful initiatives in New Zealand, including our recent brand and systems merger and our digital wallet project, and will bring added capability to my leadership team."

The appointments of Mr Goodwin, Mr Hiddleston and Ms Maguire are all subject to no objections from the Reserve Bank of New Zealand.

Mr Goodwin joined ANZ in 2004 having previously held senior corporate finance roles at Credit Suisse and The National Bank of New Zealand. He has also worked for Ernst & Young in New Zealand and the UK. A graduate of Victoria University of Wellington, he is also a member of the Executive Board of INFIZ.

Mr Hiddleston has more than 20 years' experience in the financial services sector. His career started at The National Bank of New Zealand in corporate trade finance and corporate and business banking. After working in international banking in the UK he joined ANZ in 2005 as Head of Leveraged Finance and Syndications and then Head of Specialised Lending. A graduate of Lincoln University, he has been in his current role since 2009 and has been a director of UDC Finance since 2012.

Ms Maguire joined ANZ in 2000 and has had a number of roles in Australia and New Zealand, including being Head of Personal Lending and GM of Direct Channels.

Previously she worked for American Express and Lloyds TSB, both in London, and Westpac in New Zealand. She is a graduate of the University of Auckland, with a Bachelor of Commerce degree majoring in management studies and labour relations.
